Part 2: Early Childhood highlights

The biggest new direct investments in early childhood come in the form of the $3.5 billion in CBDG dollars and the $750 million investment in Head Start.

Notable funding stream and program flexibilities:

- State CCDF Lead Agencies can use the CARES Act COVID-19 dollars to continue to pay childcare providers during closures.
- CCDF agencies may also apply for temporary waivers to relax certain licensure requirements in order to meet childcare demand during the emergency.

Flexibility in action

 Vermont is using CCDBG dollars to pay tuition for all providers, regardless of closures!

Part 2: Middle Childhood highlights

Notable funding stream and program flexibilities:

- 21st Century Community Learning Centers are encouraged to continue paying staff with grant funds and providing services to youth virtually
- The Food and Nutrition Service has issued a wealth of waivers for the Child Nutrition Programs
- Project AWARE grantees are authorized by SAMHSA to purchase electronics for staff working remotely

 Washington is leveraging the Non-Congregate Feeding Waiver as well as a waiver that allows Summer Food Service Program operation in non-Area eligible schools and locations.

Part 2: Older Youth highlights

Notable funding stream and program flexibilities:

- States can leverage a number of waivers for WIOA Youth Programs
- The deadline for states to submit their Perkins V state plans has been extended to June 15, 2020.

 The City of Orlando, FL's Families, Parks and Recreation Department is utilizing AmeriCorps volunteers to provide school day tutoring and perform wellness checkin calls with students and families. The Dept. of Labor announced up to $100 million in Dislocated Worker Grants. It is unclear whether any of that funding will go to WIOA Youth Training Programs
