

Closing Kickoff

Rob Watson

Executive Director, EdRedesign;
Lecturer on Education, Harvard Graduate School of Education

Transforming Place through Neighborhood Leadership

SUMMER INSTITUTE

JULY 10-12, 2024

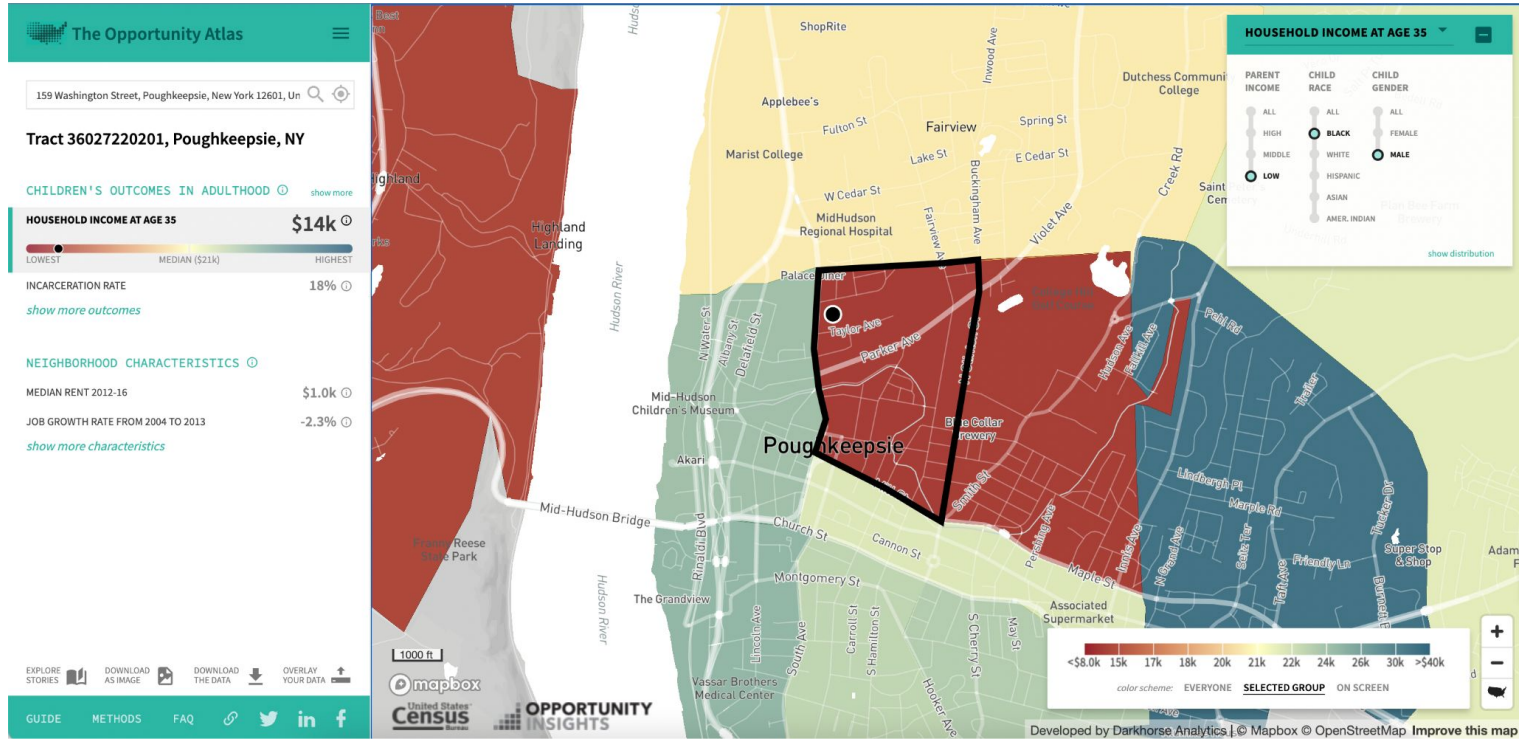

Becoming a Student of the Game

Rob Watson

Executive Director, EdRedesign;
Lecturer on Education, Harvard Graduate School of Education

@WJWInstitute

@EdRedesignLab

#PowerofPlace

Breaking the Cycle of Poverty

Photo: John Loomis

This type of transformational, community-led initiative should not be a boutique one-off, but rather the normal way that we come together as a society to align systems, fight poverty, and reverse legacies of inequity.

-Richard Raya

Goals Data Milestones Partners About

Everyone Can Thrive Here

Movement 2030 is a sweeping plan to dramatically advance economic mobility and educational attainment in Spartanburg County.

CHILD POVERTY ACTION LAB

1 in 4 Dallas children grow up in poverty. Let's work together to cut that in half in a single generation.

@WJWInstitute

@EdRedesignLab

#PowerofPlace

The New York Times

A Plan to Help Harlem Students Build Wealth: Start Them Off With $10,000

The Harlem Children's Zone is investing millions of dollars to create savings plans for students in its charter schools and, eventually, nationwide.

EdRedesign and Harlem Children's Zone visit Poughkeepsie, learn about 'cradle-to-career' efforts

We have to be in the water supply.

-Tauheedah Jackson

For every public problem we're facing in our communities, there's a place in this room that's a little further along than us in solving it

This is a craft:

We need to study each other's moves

Our relationships are our greatest resource

@WJWInstitute

@EdRedesignLab

#PowerofPlace

We must leverage our relationships to reimagine what's possible, make good on those promises we've made to ourselves and our communities, and

Build a Field

Together,
let's take the game to new heights

